Liam's Story

Miscommunication turned dream for founder Liam Donnelly in 2012. While hauling the sixth garbage bag of the day to the already overflowing dumpster, Liam realized the local cafe was approaching waste with an after-thought. WasteNot Compost was born.

"Begin a conversation with Liam Donnelly, who is an amazingly industrious human and get to composting!!! Go now!!"

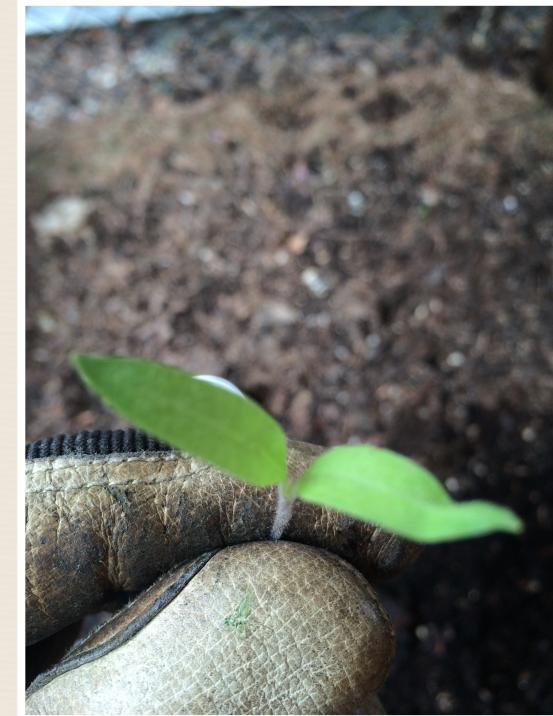

— William Goodwin, owner of Spoken a cafe

IF IT GROWS, IT GOES.

Through its partnership with Nature's Little Recyclers, a worm farm located in Chicago's back of the Yards neighborhood, WasteNot is able to accept a much greater variety of waste than traditional composting allows:

- Vegetables (fresh/cooked)
- Coffee Grounds & Filters
- Loose Leaf Tea & Filters
- Fruits
- Mushrooms
- Yard Waste
- Breads and baked goods
- Nuts
- Plant Trimmings
- Rice and Grains
- Natural Fibers
- Egg Shells (We encourage rinsing)
- Meat
- Dairy
- Soiled paper products (Check to see if the paper is certified compostable)
- BPI certified compostable bags
- BPI certified compostable paper and other products
- Houseplant scraps
- PLA Natureworks products
- Spices and herbs
- Extinguished/cold ashes from fireplaces and grills
- Wood shavings and sawdust

OUR SERVICES

WasteNot Compost provides composting services to a wide array of individuals, businesses, and organizations. As Chicago's first zero-emissions compost collection service, we specialize in creating programs to fit everyone's needs.

COMMERCIAL:

WasteNot Compost specializes in commercial compost collection from restaurants, cafes, breweries, and others. Benefits include waste audits, consultations, diversion reports, and marketing advantages. Also, WasteNot tailors composting programs to fit your business's needs and wants.

Our Current Partners

RESIDENTIAL:

WasteNot understands the difficulties composting on your own can pose and responded to this with its residential composting service. Accepting virtually all food-waste and many more compostable materials in its bucket program, weekly and bi-weekly service is available. Let us get dirty.

Currently serving Downtown and Chicago's north side neighborhoods

AND MORE:

Almost everyone produces compostable waste. WasteNot also serves schools, gardens, offices, apartment complexes and farmers markets. With a plan tailored to fit every customer's needs, WasteNot will be able to make sustainability a possibility for everyone.
